

be difficult to distinguish it from an ordinary bath-robe.

All of the fashions fixed for the coming spring emphasize straight line effects, looser even than the silhouette styles in vogue at present.

The most pronounced change is the disappearance of the wide collar on suit and coat and the expansion of the reverse. Manufacturers declare this gives a dressier appearance.

Belted effects, a Parisian idea, will be much in evidence.

Suit jackets will be cut on straight lines, slightly fitted, the predominating lengths being 26 inches and shorter, and with a tendency toward rounded front effects.

Skirts will be cut with few gores and on straight lines, with some panel and tunic effects. The slightly raised waist line and inside belting will continue in favor. One-sided effects will be featured.

Separated skirts will be cut on suit skirt lines. Frimmings will give you the appearance of fullness.

Separate coats will be full-length, with loose, enveloping effects.

Sloping shoulders, belted and collarless effects, long rolling reverses, side buttoning, large armholes with set-in-straight sleeves and bell sleeves cut on straight lines in three-quarter and seven-eighth lengths will be some of the novelties.

New tan shades will be shown in coats. Delft and yacht blues will be popular, and mannish effects in light colors will be very good. These ready-to-wear garments will retail from $20 to $40.

* WHAT'S CATARRH? *
* By Dr. W. C. Cotton. *

The catarrh myth is about exploded. Authorities agree now that there is no such thing as "catarrh" in the common sense of the word. There are a number of things that can happen to nasal passages and cause a discharge from the nose. Some of these troubles are very unpleasant, but as a rule they are not dangerous or even serious.

If your "catarrh" so-called bothers you, see a reputable doctor. Whatever you do, don't buy any patent nostrum for the treatment of catarrh.

For many of these nostrums contain cocaine and are very injurious.

A very good remedy is applied in the form of salt water. One teaspoonful to a hot glass of water gargled and sniffed up the nose morning and before retiring. The mild cases will disappear under this treatment.

The road that leads to happiness
Is the road that leads to woe,
It isn't the journey that you make
That tells you where you go.
There's just one highway down
the world,
No matter where you start,
And at the end of happiness or woe.
You carry in your heart.
